Situated in the sought after Cornish fishing village of Porthleven, in the well regarded residential area of Peverell Terrace is this two bedroom ground floor flat. The residence, which is in an off the beaten track position, enjoys views out to sea between other properties and boasts two en suite bedrooms. To the outside at the front is a pleasant patio area whilst to the rear of the property is a good size terraced garden and a useful shed.

In brief, the accommodation comprises a hall, open plan lounge/kitchen/diner and two bedrooms both with en suite facilities.

Porthleven is a thriving and picturesque Cornish fishing village, centred around its historic harbour which provides a natural focal point. Clustered around the harbour are a variety of pubs, restaurants, cafés and independent shops, giving the village a lively year-round atmosphere. Local amenities cater for everyday needs and include a primary school with nursery, while the nearby market town of Helston—just a few miles away—offers a wider range of facilities including national retailers, a cinema, comprehensive school with sixth form college, supermarkets and a sports centre with indoor swimming pool.

Between Porthleven and Helston lies the stunning Penrose Estate, owned by the National Trust. This beautiful area offers an abundance of scenic walks and trails through rolling countryside and ancient woodland, surrounding Loe Pool—Cornwall's largest natural freshwater lake. Porthleven also has a strong sense of community and tradition, perhaps best illustrated by its award-winning brass band, whose summer performances around the harbour often fill the evening air with music, creating a unique and memorable atmosphere for residents and visitors alike.
